This is to keep you apprised of our work with the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) to address air permitting program deficiencies and review the state's proposed changes. The Clean Air Act requires EPA to review permits proposed by the state and raise any objections within 45 days. The EPA regional office in Dallas is fulfilling its statutory requirement as one measure to ensure the state's program complies with national law.

Since my last update, EPA has continued to raise objections on permits proposed by the state. To date, EPA has commented on 32 permits. The state has 90 days to satisfy the objections by revising and resubmitting proposed permits or the permits default to EPA.

The additional permits are: Formosa Plastics Corporation, Texas Polypropylene Plant, Calhoun County; Dal-Tile Corporation, El Paso County; Occidental Chemical Corporation, Ingleside Plant, San Patricio County; ExxonMobil Oil Corporation, Beaumont Refinery, Jefferson County; Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Houston Chemical Plant, Harris County; Flint Hills Resources, LP, Longview Facility, Harrison County; Conoco Phillips Company, Sweeny Refinery, Brazoria County; Koral Industries, Inc., Ennis Facility, Ellis County; ExxonMobil Corporation, Linear Low Density Polyethylene Plant, Chambers County; Chevron U.S.A. Galena Park Terminal, Harris County; South Hampton Resources, Inc., Silsbee Plant, Hardin County, and Garland Power & Light, Ray Oliver Plant, Collin County, Texas.

I hope this update is helpful. Please let me know if you have any questions.
